SCMA BLOCK 101 TRAINING

*Do you have little knowledge about Block?
Want to increase your understanding of Block?*

Block 101 is a beginner to intermediate level class focusing on concrete masonry materials and accessories. The course is designed to help individuals get a general understanding of block by covering such things as block types, mortar and grout types, types of accessories and their use in construction and basic specifications. This class is excellent for people who have less than three years of experience including Brick/Block Distributors, Inside Sales, Outside Sales, Yard Supervisors, New Architects and New Engineers. The morning session will include classroom training presented by Gregg Capps with ACME Block. The afternoon session will include hands-on experience with concrete masonry.
